B2C Interview

Interview Part 1
Topic: Problem

Name of Interviewer: Anjali

Name of Interviewed: Anjali

Profession: Student

Age: 29

1. Do you feel your days are well planned out, badly planned out or could improve? Why?

Do you:

- Have enough hours of sleep?
- Wake up on time?
- Always come early to meetings, events and compromises?
- Never forget or have no time to eat?
- Never forget social events?
- Always remember your homework deadlines and you always do it on time?
- Never miss an important event?

In how other way is your day well or badly planned out?

Very badly planned out. I didn't manage my time that much or often.

2. Do you plan your day to day activities? How? (Which method or software do you use?)

Not much. Sometimes I write time plans, but most of the time I don't.

If not, why not? Don't want to.

3. Do you think this method/software is 100% efficient? Could improve? Faulty? Why?

I'm not using any of the software.

4. Do you plan every single event with this current method? Ex. Social events, going to the movies, having dinner, eating... Why?

No, I write ~~by~~ the upcoming events on my phone or on the papers to remind me.

5. What have you done to improve your daily planning?

Sometimes I make ~~the~~ time plans.

Interview Part 2

Topic: Solution

6. Would you be willing to change of method or software to try and improve your daily planning results?

Yes, very eager to.

7. Do you think calendarizing every single event would help?

most probably.

8. Would you use a platform, which could automatically organize your daily activities based on your previous behaviour, chosen preferences and grades of importance? Why?

Yes, I'm so in need of it such such a platform.

9. Would you pay a subscription for this platform/app? How much?

Yes, 1 EUR for the purchase.

10. Would you use it if it would be integrated to your google calendar (as a google service)?

Yes, ~~but~~ but I don't use google calendar now.

11. Would you prefer to use it in your computer or on your smartphone?

Yes, ~~on the smartphone~~
I prefer to use it on my smartphone. But I think it's better if the user could use it both on ~~the~~ the computer and on the smartphone, or in other words it can be synchronized on ~~many~~ many devices.

Interview Part 1
Topic: Problem

Name of Interviewer: Bernardo Garibay

Name of Interviewed: Hernan Elizondo

Profession: Student from Mexico.

Age: 22

- Do you feel your days are well planned out, badly planned out or could improve?
Why?

It could improve. I do lose lots of time in activities such as transportation.

Do you:

Have enough hours of sleep? YES.
Wake up on time? YES.
Always come early to meetings, events and compromises? YES.
Never forget or have no time to eat? YES.
Never forget social events? YES.
Always remember your homework deadlines and you always do it on time?
80%, sometimes I forget.
Never miss an important event? No.

In how other way is your day well or badly planned out?

I normally have it all planned out in my head, besides important homework and duty deadlines. For that, I use a mobile application.

- Do you plan your day to day activities? How? (Which method or software do you use?)

Yes, but I haven't felt the necessity to write it all down on a calendar. I plan it all out in my head. When I study, I only do that, I do not divide too much my attention, and well of course I would like to begin doing some other extra-curricular activities. For this matter, I do not use anything but an app to track my deadlines.

If not, why not? Explained above.

- Do you think this method/software is 100% efficient? Could improve? Faulty?
Why?

Sometimes, the notification does not appear in the application (bug).

Furthermore, there's no small events noted, so sometimes they are forgotten.

- Do you plan every single event with this current method? Ex. Social events, going to the movies, having dinner, eating... Why?
No, I don't, what is routine is easy to recall.
- What have you done to improve your daily planning?
Only what has been mentioned.

Interview Part 2

Topic: Solution

- Would you be willing to change of method or software to try and improve your daily planning results?
It depends.
- Do you think calendarizing every single event would help?
--
- Would you use a platform, which could automatically organize your daily activities based on your previous behaviour, chosen preferences and grades of importance? Why?
It depends. If I have to dedicate time to establish the settings at first or have to give it maintenance (answer push notifications too often), I wouldn't like it.
- Would you pay a subscription for this platform/app? How much?
For the moment being, no, because I don't need it. However, if there is a free trial and I could thus, try it out, I could change my mind..
- Would you use it if it would be integrated to your google calendar (as a google service)?
Yes, I would
- Would you prefer to use it in your computer or on your smartphone?
Both. I like that these could be connected.

Interview Part 1
Topic: Problem

Name of Interviewer: Bernardo Garibay

Name of Interviewed: Hugo Pétremand

Profession: Student, Chemie Ingenieurwesen, Switzerland/German

Age: 21

- Do you feel your days are well planned out, badly planned out and/or could improve? Why?

Badly planned out and could improve, because I waste a lot of time in videos and stuff.

Do you:

Have enough hours of sleep? YES

Wake up on time? YES

Always come early to meetings, events and compromises? Not always.
Depends. Courses, early. Party, don't really care.

Ever forget or have no time to eat? I sometimes forget, when I am really busy. (First week of university- a lot of things at random times. Additional meetings and stuff at mid day)

Ever forget social events? No.

Always remember your homework deadlines and you always do it on time?

1) Fuck no. 2) no. Until two years ago, for motivational. I have never used a method to register my homework.

Ever miss an important event? Yeah, from time to time. (Ex. Praktikum meeting//exchange student)

In how other way is your day well or badly planned out? On weekends I wake up to late until I feel bad of myself.

- Do you plan your day to day activities? How? (Which method or software do you use?) No.

If not, why not? I have a procrastinating nature. When I am motivated, I do write my homeworks down. Inconsistency of courses = need for me to write stuff down. Sometimes I do plan my activities, in order to remember the important events, of which I sometimes forget.

- Do you think this method/software is 100% efficient? Could improve? Faulty? Why? I should write everything down and me methodical.
- Do you plan every single event with this current method? Ex. Social events, going to the movies, having dinner, eating... Why? No, because I tell to myself that I am able to remember them, until I forget.
- What have you done to improve your daily planning?
Nothing much.

Interview Part 2
Topic: Solution

- Would you be willing to change of method or software to try and improve your daily planning results?
Yes.
- Do you think calendarizing every single event would help?
Yes.
- Would you use a platform, which could automatically organize your daily activities based on your previous behaviour, chosen preferences and grades of importance? Why? I am not sure, I would have to try it out, because I am not sure how well will it work for me.
- Would you pay a subscription for this platform/app? How much?
If it works well. I wouldn't pay for it immediately. If it has a trial, it would help to see if its worth it.
- Would you use it if it would be integrated to your google calendar (as a google service)?
It would be the same because I don't use google calendar.
- Would you prefer to use it in your computer or on your smartphone?
Smartphone, since I have it more often on myself.

Interviewer: Ye Liu

Interviewee: Neo

Profession: full-time employee in the automotive industry

age: 30

1. Days are badly planned out due to lack of time management.
2. I use a calendar assistant on my phone to plan all the daily activities
3. The software just reminds me the schedule I planned before, so it depends on my preplan. It could be good if a new software can predict my schedule based on my previous plan or habit.
4. I would like to use this software to plan my every single event, because during the day in office, most of the events are scheduled in advance and have a fixed appointment.
5. To make it more efficient, I have to check the time and update manually some urgent or more important events and reorganize with the other conflict events.
6. Yes, I am willing to try and improve my planning.
7. Calendarizing is good option.
8. I would like to use this platform, but it should be under a good supervision. As I assume this platform is online and there could be a potential risk that my private information will leak to someone else. The data protection is one of my major concern of using it.
9. The payment I would say depends on the function and the user experience. At the beginning, I would like to try it for free and see if the function satisfies myself. I would accept a one- time payment as less than 5 Euro.
10. If I use a smart phone installed with Android system, probably yes.
11. I prefer to using the app on my smartphone, because it is always with me.

Interviewer: Ye Liu
Interviewee: Xiang Gao

Profession: full-time researcher
age: 30

1.

X : always come early to meetings
X: never forget social events
X: never missed important event

2. Yes. use microsoft OneNote, Outlook and google calendar

3. No. Setting alerts is not so smart. Some applications can not set priority. No statistics on feedback or results.

4. Yes, since there are a lot of things to do everyday. Otherwise I will forget important events.

5. Everyday when I get the office I first do the planning for the whole day.

6. Not sure. Because in the company we all use Outlook and OneNote. It will be very complicated to send invitations to other coworkers with the different application. Privately, it depends on whether the application is better than google calendar.

7. Yes. At least you have reminders.

8. Yes. I will try

9. No. I am not okay with paying the app, since my current planning software works fine.

10. It depends on how convenient it is.

11. Yes.

Questionnaire
B2C Interview

Interview Part 1
Topic: Problem

Name of Interviewer: BERNARDO GARIBAY

Name of Interviewed: TOMAS LUGO

Profession: Student and half-time worker. Has worked for Google and Facebook.

Age: 21

- Do you feel your days are well planned out, badly planned out or could improve?
Why?

There's no free time on my day but it is well organized and planned out. I use two APPS to help me with this process, which are "Google Calendar" and "My Study Life". I use google calendar to regular hour check-ups and reminders, meanwhile I use My Study Life to help me with homework and test reminders.

Do you:

- Have enough hours of sleep? Yes.
Wake up on time? Most of the time. When I am too tired, I struggle.
Always come on time to meetings, events and compromises? Yes.
Never forget or have no time to eat? No.
Never forget social events? -
Always remember your homework deadlines and you always do it on time?
Yes, with the help of My Study Life.
Never miss an important event? -

In how other way is your day well or badly planned out?

- Do you plan your day to day activities? How? (Which method or software do you use?)

Yes I do. I plan my ordinary reminders for homework and tests, or other school-related activities, on my My Student Life APP. On the other hand, I use Google calendar for all other activities. In this platform, I even include activities such as exercise and other non-social activities.

- Do you think this method/software is 100% efficient? Could improve? Faulty? Why?

Google Calendar is unique in offering a level of individuality that other programs don't. This means, it tracks your personal objectives, such as exercise goals. For this, it asks you on the specific days where you've scheduled exercise, if you've had or haven't practiced the sport. Even though this is a nice feature, he believes it is a bit too complex for the user. That is, the user must first input the days when he/she wants to exercise, plus, it asks you every day if you've done it or not. Furthermore, it does not really measure if you've done really-for example, 3 days or not of tennis per week, because it doesn't let you say if you've replaced Monday tennis with Thursday tennis.

My Study Life, on the other hand, is too concentrated. It just focuses on school material, while it can potentially accept more events.

*I believe the name itself reduces the audience. – Bernardo

- Do you plan every single event with this current method? Ex. Social events, going to the movies, having dinner, eating... Why?

With Google Calendar I plan every event, other than social-related events, while on My Study Life I only plan academics-related ones.

- What have you done to improve your daily planning?
Developed the habit to write everything down.

Interview Part 2 Topic: Solution

- Would you be willing to change of method or software to try and improve your daily planning results?
Yes I will.
- Do you think calendarizing every single event would help?
- Would you use a platform, which could automatically organize your daily activities based on your previous behaviour, chosen preferences and grades of importance? Why?
Yes.
- Would you pay a subscription for this platform/app? How much?
I would like to try it out first to see if it works for me before I pay. So either it's free and offers premium features or offers a free trial.

- Would you use it if it would be integrated to your google calendar (as a google service)?

It would be practical

- Would you prefer to use it in your computer or on your smartphone?

Both if possible. If not, smartphone because you always have it with you.
